Social Security Planning Presentation

Do you have questions about Social Security? Join us for an upbeat, informative session.

Mr. Robert Fenn
Social Security Administration

You can never be too early — or too late — to start planning for retirement, and Social Security is one of the biggest pieces of that puzzle. This in-person presentation walks through the retirement program in plain language, straight from an official Social Security employee.

Robert Fenn has spent over twenty-seven years with the agency conducting public outreach, education, and training. Take the first step toward your retirement future at this free, interactive session.

WHAT THE SESSIONS COVER

- Filing options for spouses and divorced spouses
- How and when to file for Medicare
- How to work and collect benefits at the same time
- Key factors for choosing the right time to file

Social Security is a part of everyone's life and is a major source of income for most people of retirement age. In fact, nearly nine out of ten individuals age 65 and older receive Social Security benefits.

With the current wave of "Baby Boomers" reaching retirement age and with some employers providing financial planning information, Social Security information and speakers are a welcome resource.

Maybe you have these questions-

Have I earned enough quarters of coverage to receive benefits?

At what age should I file? Is it too early to think about Social Security?

Can I work and receive Social Security benefits?

I am divorced. Can I file on a previous spouse's earnings?

What is the quickest way to receive my benefit?

Do I have to file for Medicare?

What if I paid into a different retirement system? Am I still eligible to receive a benefit?

Will there be a Cost of Living Increase and will it affect my Medicare?

Robert Fenn, Public Affairs Specialist, of the Social Security Administration in a clear and concise manner, will answer these questions.
